

War & Conquest

The Photographs Version 1 January 2012

War & Conquest is lavishly illustrated with photographs and they are not there just as 'eye candy'. The majority are there to illustrate - and by reading the accompanying captions - explain points made in the rules. Because we are playing a game using miniature model soldiers, we felt it was much better to use photographs rather than diagrams.

All the miniatures and terrain were kindly loaned from peoples private collections. As the collections were built from a range of manufacturers, we felt it would be a useful idea to produce an article highlighting where the models were sourced and from whose collection. There was never going to be enough space to put this in the book, and so we chose at outset to make it available as an online document.

Miniatures and terrain are from the private collections of: Phil Turner, Tony Rodwell, Curteys Miniatures, 1st Corps, Gripping Beast, Andy Hawes, James Morris, Oshiro Model Terrain and Nick Eyre's North Star. All used with their kind permission. Our thanks to them for letting us borrow their collections. The photographs in this book would not have been possible without their generosity and support. Models are identified by owner of the collection, manufacturers and materials used. Where possible I have taken the opportunity to add a few personal notes about the photos or models used. The information should be used in conjunction with the photographs themselves.

At the end of the document you will find the website addresses for the manufacturers. As we mention in the War & Conquest rulebook, if you notice any omissions or errors, please get in touch. Likewise, as miniature companies sell off ranges or change their contact details, please let us know. We will then update the document with any corrections.

Should you have questions, please identify the page number in the book and be as clear as you can be if you are looking for specific details on a particular model. I may have to correspond with the owner of the collection, so you may not get an immediate response. I will acknowledge receipt of the communication, so if you don't get a reply within a couple of days, you can assume the message never arrived and should try again.

War & Conquest is supported via the Scarab Miniatures forum and the warandconquest yahoo group – join today!

About the photographs

Pete (the designer) wanted to introduce each section with an inspirational and cinematic photograph, which I thought was a perfectly good idea. We both wanted the rule shots to be a mix of obvious 'game in progress' type photos and other, more exciting photos that could be either a game or a cinematic shot. The miniatures and terrain we have used in the photographs are generally accurate for the periods they are representing, but eagle eyed readers may notice one or two historical anomalies. For that, we beg forgiveness, and if you spot any, please let us know.

The photographs were all taken using a Sony A200 DSLR and processed using Photoshop and accompanying software by Pete.

This document was created while listening to Iron Maiden, Foo Fighters and Rammstein. Those who have known me for a long time will know full well how much I like rock music and when in doubt, I recommend listening to Planet Rock!

Kind regards

Rob Broom

www.scarabminiatures.com

Collection: Rob Broom

Miniature: Gripping Beast

Back in the days when I worked at Games Workshop as the Warhammer Historical Manager, I would organise events at Warhammer World. These were very popular. Various brave souls would organise themed competitions and campaigns, all played in a great spirit and for fun. Gripping Beast, (Andy Sherwell and Darren Harding) really got into the ideas behind the event and went so far as to commission a special miniature for the players in their campaigns. The miniatures were usually based on particular characters from history, but this one, sculpted by Soapy, was meant to represent me, holding onto to a rulebook. The first one I painted was given as a retirement gift to Mike Bruck (who has since come out of retirement!), so I got another from GB and Pete then added the War & Conquest logo digitally. I might try and paint it on properly one day.

Perhaps of more relevance, we will be organising War & Conquest gaming days, and I am sure others will also take on the mantle in their local areas. If you plan to do so, please let us know and use the Scarab forum to spread the word!

Page 4 and 5

Contents

We will talk more about these two later, as they are segments from the section starts for Personalities of War (page 100) and Strategy Intervention Points (page 108).

Page 6 and 7

Collection: James Morris

Miniatures: Gripping Beast, Wargames Foundry, many are conversions.

The terrain was also made by James, the 'rocks' on the right came from our garden at the Foxgloves, Bingham, just before we moved back to the West country.

Page 8

Preparing for War

Collection: Rob Broom

Miniatures: Scarab Miniatures

Inspired by the superb artwork of Neil Roberts that you see on the cover (and in full on page 160), this picture uses models from our Greek range. The walls and buildings are by Grand Manner and were painted by Chris Stone.

Page 10 and 11

Collections: James Morris, Rob Broom and Gripping Beast

Miniatures: Gripping Beast, Wargames Foundry and Crusader Miniatures

The terrain was made by James and has been a faithful servant for many of his games.

P12

Dimitris

Collection: Rob Broom

Miniature: Scarab Miniatures

Eurytus

Collection: 1st Corps

Miniature: 1st Corps

John

Collection: Curteys Miniatures

Miniature: Curteys Miniatures

Artorius

Collection: Andy Hawes

Miniature: West Wind (Artorius) Gripping Beast (horse) Wargames Foundry (shield)

P14

Collection: Rob Broom

Miniatures: Scarab Miniatures

The shields use transfers from Battle Flag specially sized for our shields.

P15

Collection: Curteys Miniatures

Miniatures: Curteys Miniatures

The trees also came from the collection of Michael and Simon at Curteys (and 1st Corps). Both of them really helped with the early play testing which helped me develop some of the rule concepts. They had to cope with quite a few sudden changes from one game to the next!

P16

Collection: Gripping Beast

Miniatures: Gripping Beast mounted Druzhina

Using snow really sets off a picture of miniatures, but is not really practical for wargaming on a regular basis unless the board is purpose built.

P17

Collections: Rob Broom and Phil Turner

Miniatures: Scarab Miniatures Greeks. Wargames Foundry and Old Glory Thracians

Phil hand painted the patterns on the Thracians cloaks, you will get some more views of them later.

P18

Collections: Rob Broom and Phil Turner

Miniatures: Scarab Miniatures Greeks

The shields use transfers from Battle Flag and the hex base is from Oshiro Model Terrain

P19

Top

Collection: Oshiro Model Terrain

Miniatures: Perry Miniatures Samurai

Bottom

Collection: Nick Eyres North Star

Miniatures: Crusader Miniatures

These were painted by Tom Weiss.

P20

Collection: Rob Broom

Miniatures: Gripping Beast and Wargames Foundry

Most of this unit was painted by Jeremy Jenkins apart from the musician and standard bearer, which are my efforts after I bought the army from him many years ago. We took one of these figures with us to do the press pass. On our way we had to take a detour and then drove into a small town where staring us in the face was Jeremy's estate agency business. We took that as a good omen!

P21

Collection: Gripping Beast

Miniatures: Gripping Beast Plastics

P22

Collections: Tony Rodwell

Miniatures: Curteys Miniatures

Tony very kindly leant us a number of his armies. The shields are hand painted. The terrain belongs to Nick Eyre.

P24

The Rules of War

Collection: Gripping Beast

Miniatures: Gripping Beast

P26

Movement

Collection: Curteys Miniatures

Miniatures: Curteys Miniatures

The buildings are made by Monolith and are from my collection, as are the trees.

P29

Collection: James Morris

Miniatures: Gripping Beast and Wargames Foundry

The terrain is also from James' collection. Most of the models are by Gripping Beast.

P30

Collections: Tony Rodwell and Phil Turner

Miniatures: Old Glory, Wargames Foundry and 1st Corps

The road was made by James Morris, and is now available from Magnetic Displays as a rubber road set.

The Romans come from Phils collection. The Picts are from Tonys collection and he hand-painted the patterns on the cloaks.

P31

Collection: 1st Corps

Miniatures: 1st Corps Persians

P33

Top

Collection: James Morris

Miniatures: Gripping Beast and Wargames Foundry

Bottom

Collection: Nick Eyre's North Star

Miniatures: Crusader Miniatures

P34

Both Pictures

Collection: Andy Hawes

Miniatures: Gripping Beast

P35

Collection: Curteys Miniatures

Miniatures: Curteys Miniatures

P36

Collection: Rob Broom

Miniatures: Gripping Beast Romans and Wargames Foundry barbarians

Verinoxies (shaking his fist) is from Phil's collection.

P37

Collection: Andy Hawes

Miniatures: Perry Miniatures

Terrain by James Morris

P38

Charge

Collection: Gripping Beast and Curteys Miniatures

Miniatures: Gripping Beast and Curteys Miniatures

The falling Gripping Beast miniatures in the foreground really help create this picture. If you look back at the Rules of War picture you can see more casualty and fallen models from this range.

P40 and 41

Collection: Phil Turner, Rob Broom and Gripping Beast

Miniatures: Wargames Foundry, Gripping Beast and Old Glory

The barbarians in this picture are from Phil's collection, and are mainly by Wargames Foundry, with a few of the others mixed in. The Roman units are Gripping Beast, the one on the left is mine, the other belongs to GB.

P42 and 43

Collection: Phil Turner

Miniatures: Wargames Foundry, Gripping Beast and Old Glory. 1st Corps Romans

P44

Collection: Rob Broom

Miniatures: Old Glory and Kingmaker

Only the command group of the Hussites is by Kingmaker, the rest are all Old Glory.

P45

Collection: Phil Turner (Spartans) and Rob Broom (Athens)

Miniatures: Scarab Miniatures

P47

Top

Collections: Phil Turner and Gripping Beast

Miniatures: Wargames Foundry, Gripping Beast and Old Glory.

The Roman unit is Gripping Beast.

Bottom

Collections: Phil Turner and Rob Broom

Miniatures: Wargames Foundry, Gripping Beast and Old Glory.

The Roman unit is Gripping Beast.

P48

Collection: Gripping Beast

Miniatures: Gripping Beast

P49

Collections: Tony Rodwell and Rob Broom

Miniatures: Wargames Foundry Macedonians and Old Glory Indians

P50

Collection: Curteys Miniatures

Miniatures: Curteys Miniatures

The buildings and palisade are made by Oshiro Model Terrain. Some parts of the palisade are by Scheltrum Miniatures. They come from Oshiro and my own collections.

P52

Collections: Rob Broom and James Morris

Miniatures: Gripping Beast

P53

Collection: Gripping Beast

Miniatures: Gripping Beast

P54

Terrain

Collection: Nick Eyres North Star

Miniatures: Crusader Miniatures

P56 and 57

Collection: James Morris

Miniatures: Gripping Beast, Wargames Foundry and plenty of conversions

The terrain has been made by James and most of the models are by Gripping Beast. The backdrop really is there, attached to the edge of the table. The standing stones are from the garden at Bingham and North Road.

P58 and 59

Collection: Curteys Miniatures

Miniatures: Curteys Miniatures

The buildings are made by Monolith and are from my collection.

P60

Collection: Oshiro Model Terrain

Miniatures: Perry Miniatures

P62

Shooting

Collection: 1st Corps
Miniatures: 1st Corps

P65

Collection: 1st Corps and Rob Broom
Miniatures: 1st Corps and Scarab Miniatures
The centre unit of Greeks are by Scarab Miniatures, the rest of the models are by 1st Corps.

P66

Collection: 1st Corps and Rob Broom
Miniatures: 1st Corps and Scarab Miniatures
The Greeks are by Scarab Miniatures, the Persians are by 1st Corps.

P67

Collection: 1st Corps and Phil Turner
Miniatures: 1st Corps and Scarab Miniatures
The Spartans are by Scarab Miniatures from Phils collection, the Persians are by 1st Corps. The terrain was made by James Morris.

P68

Collection: James Morris
Miniatures: Gripping Beast and Crusader Miniatures

P69

Collection: Curteys Miniatures
Miniatures: Curteys Miniatures

P70

Combat
Collections: Phil Turner and Rob Broom
Miniatures: Wargames Foundry and 1st Corps (Romans)

P72

Collections: Phil Turner and Rob Broom
Miniatures: Wargames Foundry and Old Glory Thracians. Scarab Miniatures Greeks.

P73

Collection: Oshiro Model Terrain
Miniatures: Perry Miniatures

P74

Top and Bottom
Collection: Curteys Miniatures
Miniatures: Curteys Miniatures
I only took a few photos in this book as Pete took the majority, but the top one is the first one I did. Note the crossbow bolts imbedded in the shields of the advancing spearmen.

P76

Collections: Phil Turner and Gripping Beast

Miniatures: Gripping Beast Romans. Wargames Foundry Germans

P77

Collection: Gripping Beast

Miniatures: Vendel originally, but now owned by Sgt Major Miniatures under their Molon Labe range
The elephant is heavily converted, the piece captures the final moments of one of these great beasts.

P79

Top

Collections: Phil Turner and Gripping Beast

Miniatures: Gripping Beast Romans. Wargames Foundry Germans

Bottom

Collection: Gripping Beast

Miniatures: Gripping Beast Romans. Polemarch Successors
Polemarch are manufactured by Gripping Beast.

P81

Collection: James Morris

Miniatures: Gripping Beast, Wargames Foundry and Crusader Miniatures

The Saxon Gedriht unit A uses models that are probably not suitable for the period we are recreating in the photograph. I live near Hinton Hill and Dyrham. There are several other hill forts nearby. As it is a fascinating period of history, this probably means the start of a new army.

P82

Top

Collections: Phil Turner and Gripping Beast

Miniatures: Gripping Beast Romans. Wargames Foundry Germans

The wailing women are from my own collection, painted by Jeremy Jenkins and are made by Wargames Foundry.

P84

Resolution

Collection: James Morris

Miniatures: Gripping Beast.

P86 and 87

Collection: Andy Hawes

Miniatures: Gripping Beast.

P88 and 89

Collections: Phil Turner and Rob Broom

Miniatures: Wargames Foundry and Scarab Miniatures

The Athenians in this picture are from Scarab Miniatures, as is the unit of Spartans on the right. The casualties are by Wargames Foundry and Sgt Major Miniatures. Shield transfers by Battle Flag, sized for Scarab Miniatures shields.

P90

Collection: 1st Corps, Phil Turner and Rob Broom

Miniatures: 1st Corps and Old Glory

The Indian unit is by Old Glory and from my collection. The Bactrians are from Phil's collection and the remainder from 1st Corps.

P91

Collections: Phil Turner and Gripping Beast

Miniatures: Gripping Beast Romans. Wargames Foundry Germans

P92

Collections: Tony Rodwell and Gripping Beast

Miniatures: Gripping Beast and Newline Numidians

Tony Rodwell has a massive Numidian army. I hope we can show it off in a future publication.

P93

Collections: Andy Hawes and Rob Broom

Miniatures: Gripping Beast and Wargames Foundry

P94

End Phase

Collection: James Morris

Miniatures: Gripping Beast

James made the terrain and there are a number of conversions in these armies.

P96

Collection: James Morris

Miniatures: Gripping Beast

P97

Collection: 1st Corps

Miniatures: 1st Corps

P98

Collection: Tony Rodwell

Miniatures: Old Glory

P99

Collection: Rob Broom

Miniatures: Gripping Beast

The riders in this photo were painted by the late Heine Baekkelund for the Warhammer Ancient Battle supplement 'Beyond the Golden Gate'. I painted the horses, weapons and did all the basing. His partner Anna kindly let me keep these and a few other pieces after he passed away. I intend to finish off the army properly so it can take to the field of battle in his memory with this unit as the centrepiece.

P100

Personalities of War

Collections: Phil Turner, Rob Broom, 1st Corps and Gripping Beast

Miniatures: 1st Corps, Wargames Foundry and Gripping Beast

To get the effect of snow falling, I stood on a chair and scattered snow flock while Pete took a picture. The general on the horse and dog are from 1st Corps.

P102

Collection: 1st Corps

Miniatures: 1st Corps

P103

Collection: Andy Hawes

Miniatures: Gripping Beast

P105

Collection: James Morris

Miniatures: Crusader Miniatures, Wargames Foundry and Gripping Beast

P106 and 107

Collections: James Morris

Miniatures: Gripping Beast

There is a Perry Miniature in the unit on the right.

P108

Strategy Intervention Points

Collection: 1st Corps

Miniatures: 1st Corps

Shield designs by Battle Flag

P110

Collection: James Morris

Miniatures: Crusader Miniatures, Gripping Beast

James cannot remember who makes the two warriors lifting aloft their Ri Tuath. It is an old set though. No doubt someone will identify it. Most of the axemen are by Crusader, the wolfhounds by Gripping Beast.

P111

Collection: Tony Rodwell

Miniatures: Wargames Foundry

P113

Top

Collection: James Morris

Miniatures: Crusader Miniatures, Gripping Beast

Bottom

Collection: Curteys Miniatures

Miniatures: Curteys Miniatures

P114

Collection: Andy Hawes

Miniatures: Perry Miniatures, Gripping Beast

The Almoravids are from my collection.

P115

Collection: Rob Broom

Miniatures: Perry Miniatures

The set piece was painted by Alex Buchel and the flags in the background by James at Oshiro Model Terrain

P116

The Armoury

Collection: Oshiro Model Terrain

Miniatures: Perry Miniatures

The buildings in the background were hand-made by James Sharpe of Oshiro and are based on Osaka castle. The cherry blossom trees were given to me by John Kersey and have seen sterling service in a number of Japanese photos over the years, and will do so again – thanks John!

P118

Collection: Rob Broom and Tony Rodwell

Miniatures: Wargames Foundry

The Mycenaean spearmen are from my collection, the Sea Peoples from Tonys.

P119

Combat Weapons

Hand weapon

Collection: Rob Broom

Miniature: Old Glory Hungarian

Throwing Weapon

Collection: Andy Hawes

Miniature: Gripping Beast Saxon

Heavy Throwing Weapon

Collection: Gripping Beast

Miniature: Gripping Beast

P120

Two-handed Weapons

Collection: Rob Broom

Miniature: Old Glory Hungarian

Thrusting Spears

Collection: Phil Turner

Miniature: Sacarab Miniatures Spartan

P121

Collection: Oshiro Model Terrain

Miniature: Perry Miniatures Ashigaru

Collection: Curteys Miniatures

Miniature: Curteys Miniatures

P122

Collection: Rob Broom and 1st Corps

Miniatures: Scarab Miniatures and 1st Corps

P123

Collection: Andy Hawes

Miniature: Perry Miniatures

Collection: Andy Hawes

Miniature: Perry Miniatures

Collection: Rob Broom

Miniature: Old Glory Hussite

P125

Collection: Rob Broom

Miniatures: Old Glory and Kingmaker

The pavises are by Kingmaker and the pavise designs by Little Big Men Studios

P127

Collection: Andy Hawes

Miniatures: Perry Miniatures

P128

Collection: Phil Turner

Miniatures: Wargames Foundry

There is a Gripping Beast and Old Glory model in this unit as well.

P129

Collection: Rob Broom

Miniatures: Gripping Beast

P130

Skirmish Formations

Collection: Phil Turner and Rob Broom

Miniatures: Gripping Beast

The Hun horse archers are from Phils collection, and the Late Romans are from mine. Rocks from the garden!

P133

Top

Collection: Phil Turner and Rob Broom

Miniatures: Gripping Beast

The leader of the Huns is a Wargames Foundry model on a Gripping Beast Horse.

Bottom

Collection: Phil Turner and Rob Broom

Miniatures: Scarab Miniatures

P134

Collection: Tony Rodwell

Miniatures: Gripping Beast

P135

Collection: Phil Turner, 1st Corps and Rob Broom

Miniatures: Wargames Foundry, Old Glory, 1st Corps and Scarab Miniatures

The Thracians are from Phils collection, the mounted Greeks from 1st Corps, and the skirmishing psiloi from mine.

P136

Collection: Rob Broom

Miniatures: Gripping Beast (Saxons) and Wargames Foundry (youths)

The road is available from Magnetic Displays. They also make a really nice river set with crossing points for the road. You will see these in a future game and battle I am planning.

P137

Collection: Phil Turner and Rob Broom

Miniatures: Gripping Beast and Wargames Foundry

The road is available from Magnetic Displays. As an alternative, Kallistra make a hard plastic set of roads and rivers for their Hexon terrain. By adding some texture, these can look really good and I used them for my Great War games. You can find some pictures on the Scarab forum.

P138

Chariots, Artillery and Elephants

Collection: Tony Rodwell

Miniatures: Wargames Foundry

The terrain is from Nick Eyres collection. The buildings in the background are made by Grendal and are from my collection. Mike Bruck wanted us to call this section 'Big Stuff'.

P140 and 141

Collection: Curteys Miniatures and Rob Broom

Miniatures: Curteys Miniatures

Buildings made by Monolith, the wooden tower by Scheltrum. Terrain and trees from my collection.

P142

Collection: Tony Rodwell

Miniatures: Wargames Foundry

P143

Collection: Rob Broom

Miniatures: Wargames Foundry

The walls of Troy are made by Grand Manner. The chariot duel (1) was painted for me by Kevin Shilito as a commission many years ago. The Siege of Troy game will be getting an expansion later this year, time permitting.

P144

Collection: 1st Corps

Miniatures: 1st Corps

P147

Top

Collection: Rob Broom

Miniatures: Old Glory Hussites

Bottom

Collection: Phil Turner

Miniatures: Newline Designs

The one on the right is by Wargames Foundry

P148

Collection: Rob Broom

Miniatures: Gripping Beast

The elephant was also painted by the late Heine Baekkelund, see my previous note in this document.

P150 and 151

Collection: Gripping Beast and Rob Broom

Miniatures: Polemarch (Successors) and Old Glory (elephant)

Page 152

Battle Begins

Collection: Andy Hawes

Miniatures: Perry Miniatures

The castle is made by Hudson and Allen, and is from my collection.

Page 154

Collection: James Morris

We have already talked about this picture on pages 6 and 7

Page 155

Summer

Collection: Rob Broom

Miniatures: Wargames Foundry

Buildings by Grand Manner, terrain boards from James Morris

Autumn

Collection: Phil Turner

Miniatures: 1st Corps, Wargames Foundry, Old Glory

Terrain boards from Simon and Michael Curtis

Page 156

Winter

Collection: Tony Rodwell

Miniatures: Curteys Miniatures

Terrain boards from Simon and Michael Curtis

Spring

Collection: James Morris and Andy Hawes

Miniatures: Gripping Beast, Perry Miniatures

Terrain boards from James Morris

Page 158

Collection: Andy Hawes

Miniatures: Gripping Beast

Page 160

The Rearguard

Artwork by Neil Roberts

Page 162

Collection: Rob Broom

Miniatures: Scarab Miniatures

Page 165

Top

Artorius

Collection: Andy Hawes

Miniatures: West Wind (Artorius) Gripping Beast (horse) Wargames Foundry (shield)

Bottom

Brasidas

Collection: Rob Broom

Miniatures: Scarab Miniatures

We prepared this model based on the artwork by Neil Roberts. It was sculpted by Martin Baker.

Companies alphabetically

This list also includes one or two companies that may not have products featured in War & Conquest, but are worth mentioning for completeness or simply because they are nice people! If you feel I have missed anyone out, do let me know.

Miniatures (28mm, there are plenty of other sizes and scales!)

Scarabminiatures.com

1stcorps.co.uk

Artizandesigns.com

Crusaderminiatures.com

Grippingbeast.com

Magisttermilitum.com

Newlinedesigns.co.uk

Northstarfigures.com

Oldgloryuk.com

Oldgloryminiatures.com

Perry-miniatures.com

sgmm.biz (Sgt Major Miniatures)

Wargamesfoundry.com

Warlordgames.com

Westwindproductions.co.uk

Transfers and decals

3vwargames.co.uk

Battle-flag.com

Littlebigmenstudios.co.uk

Buildings and Terrain

Grandmanner.co.uk

Kallistra.co.uk

Magneticdisplays.co.uk

Monolithdesigns.co.uk

Oshiromodelterrain.co.uk

Scheltrum.co.uk

Scotiagrendel.com

Scarab
Miniatures

Scarab Miniatures Limited 2012